Not so many moons ago,
but still while the animals could talk,
the Big River ran in two directions.

This made it easy for the animals to travel.

They could go North on one side and come South on the other.